AN OMNIBUS BILL.

Congress has passed a bill which sweeps out of the way of future Congresses a mass of claims—an "omnibus" bill for the payment of small war claims. In the measure 1,359 persons are named as the beneficiaries, together with the amount that shall be paid each. The aggregate amount of the bill is $291,148, and the claims average about $214, some being as low as $10, and a few running up to $1,000. These claims were for stores and supplies taken during the rebellion, mostly from farmers, for the use of the Union army, and they have been before Congress for years. The act under which they are now finally to be paid was passed in 1864, and provided that, after proper examination and after being audited by the Treasury, claims of this character from loyal citizens should be paid. There is thought to be no question of the President's approval of the bill. Claims of this sort, when fairly proved, are perfectly just, and should be paid. But let Congress "look a little odd" for Confederate claims pure and simple—and their name is Legion—though it is true there is a Constitutional amendment forbidding their payment, there are countless majesties of flagellating his Satanic Majesty in the environments of the decayed and disheveled trunk of the majestic monarch of the forest.

A PORTRAIT OF GUITEAU.

Gail Hamilton thus paints the portrait of the murderer of President Garfield: "A liar from the beginning, a monster of intelligence and iniquity, sprang from the dregs of an ancestral blood whose revolutionary force and religious fervor had left this horrible sediment of malignity and murder, his hand slaughtered a lofty life and reversed a national movement. Religion may well shudder to behold the man, but he is hers. He is not an infidel. He is a Christian. It is a ghastly and loathsome skeleton, but it is the skeleton of a pure ancestral Huguenot faith, perfect in all its parts. Heavenly influence, Divine protection and Providence, communion with God, companionship with Christ—there is not a sacred truth, a solemn trust, which Giteau has not belied with the acid poison of his tongue. Naming every name which the church holds holy, he stands before the church and the world totally depraved, proving, by the horror with which we regard him, how little the church has ever believed in the doctrine of total depravity."

WILMINGTON HARBOR.

The Los Angeles papers are speculating upon the probable fate of the appropriation bill for the improvement of Wilmington harbor. The amount appropriated is $75,000. It is said that this sum will make the harbor accessible at nearly all times to the coast steamers, which draw from ten to sixteen feet of water. Private letters to citizens of Los Angeles say the bill is not likely to pass at this session, owing to the number of bills of a similar character now before Congress.—San Diego Union.

The Union is a little off its base. The House Committee has recommended an appropriation of $75,000 for Wilmington harbor and it will undoubtedly pass. The bill which is in doubt is that creating Wilmington a port of entry. This bill may not be reached before the adjournment of Congress, but the immense business being transacted at this port, renders the passage of the bill certain as soon as it can be reached.

The Santa Barbara Press says of Thomas R. Bard, who has been a prospective candidate for Congressman at large: "We have direct and positive information that his health and business engagements are such that he must emphatically decline to be a candidate. In spite of the strenuous exertions of his many friends, he is out of the field, and will not accept the nomination under any circumstances."

There is a dispute as to the date of President Lincoln's assassination. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat states the correct date, viz: Good Friday, April 14, 1865. It is a date that cannot pass from the recollection of the men of those memorable times, when American history was being written with marvelous speed and indelible distinctness—written oftentimes in human blood.

The San Francisco Call says it is rumored on the street that Gen. George Stoneman will in a few days publish a card, declining to be a candidate for Governor.

Sensitive people wish to be loved; vain people wish only to be preferred.

SLIPPING AWAY.

The Mexican Trade—Los Angeles Should be Up and Doing.

Chicago, Kansas City and Denver merchants are vigorously at work making every effort to gain a foothold on Mexican soil. Money is expended freely in the undertaking and a prodigious amount of hard work has been done with the customary energy of those five cities. They realize the importance of the movement, and each of them will doubtless succeed in their efforts to establish a permanent trade with our recently awakened neighbor. The iron bands of commerce—leading to and from Mexico—are controlled in the interest of different cities, hence the gigantic warfare now carried on. The question arises, can Los Angeles afford to let this golden opportunity slip away without making an effort at least to secure a share of the prize? A history in common with that of Mexico, race affiliations, the prevalence of the Spanish language in Southern California and Mexico, geographical proximity, ship and railroad facilities and many other considerations—all point to the unsurpassed advantages possessed by Los Angeles as the distributing point for a large portion of Mexico. With the large number of business men, thoroughly versed in the manners and customs of Mexicans and the Spanish language, systematic and persistent efforts should be directed towards securing a close commercial alliance with Mexico, and it would be of vast benefit to both countries. Space will not permit a list of the commodities which could be mutually exchanged; suffice it to say that a vigorous campaign by merchants of this city in Mexico would demonstrate to the merchants of that country the superior advantages gained by transacting their business with this point, in place of the afore-said western cities. A reciprocal commercial treaty would assist materially in the upbuilding of an inter-commerce between the two sections, and if our merchants and capitalists are alive to the possibilities of Los Angeles, they should leave no stone unturned in order to accomplish this object. Sonora could be thoroughly canvassed first and after a satisfactory demonstration of success of the undertaking, then extend to every part of Mexico. This matter is of the greatest importance to our city and country, and in fact all of Southern California, as it will create a market for a vast number of fruits, raw material and manufactured articles. This grand opportunity must not be allowed to slip away. By the way, what has become of our Chamber of Commerce?

Weather Report.

COURT NOTES.

Chronicle 10.

Judge Sepulveda of Los Angeles aspires to the Supreme Court.

About forty passengers leave Kelton for Wood River, I. T., daily.

John Markley, ex-County Clerk of Monterey county, wants to be a member of the State Board of Equalization.

The San Jose Mercury thinks that over-weening confidence will prove destructive to the Democratic party in this State.

The business of Flagstaff, A. T., is composed of the parts usual in a frontier town. There are eleven saloons and two stores.

It is announced by an employee of Northern Pacific that the Eastern division of the road will be completed to within 111 miles of Helena, M. T., by November next.

There is entire unanimity in the Democratic press on the score of relegating Stoneman to the comparative obscurity of minority position in the Railroad Commission.

The Ventura Signal sniffs a battle of giants in the Fourth Congressional District, and in that connection mentions that Pat Murphy is in the field as a candidate for Democratic honors.

Hon. F. C. Berry has written a letter to R. W. Pondaguet, of Woodland, in which he expresses the hope that he will be able to be in California by the time the State Convention (Democratic) assembles.

Joseph Lynch, of the Los Angeles Herald, is a candidate for Congress at large. His qualifications are unflinching Bourbonism and devotion to the railroad monopoly, the good graces of which he has lately been courting.

The Sacramento railroad organ says the contest for Governor has narrowed down to M. E. Bates and Irving M. Scott on the Republican and Clay W. Taylor, James A. Johnson and George A. Hearst on the Democratic side.

It is said that the Canyon Diablo bridge, on the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, north of Prescott, A. T., is the highest bridge in the world, with one exception. From the bottom of the canyon to the center of the bridge the distance is about 330 feet.

The Belmont (Nev.) Courier reports that the Indians have taken up all the arable land west of Mount Jefferson. They have begun the most of plowing and sowing, and anticipate a bountiful harvest and good profits. This looks like the outcropping of civilization.

Aarkin went to San Bernardino recently and bought a starched shirt. He stepped out into the middle of a prominent street and took off his old one and put on the new, ignorant of the use of a secluded dressing room. The open afforded him room enough to make his toilet.

Mamie Geinghrey, who was brutally shot by her father recently in San Jose, is rapidly recovering. She says she could forgive her father if he had only shot her, but his attempt to ruin her character makes her hate him past forgiveness. He writes her letters from jail and whines about his hard lot and plain fare, and begs her to forgive him.

The Oakland Tribune suggests that the Democrats, before they claim to be the friend of the laboring man, purge themselves of their past offenses against free labor. It asks the Democrats to deny whether they did not uphold slavery, and whether they have ever made a move, in the States where they have uninterrupted control, in favor of free education.

While on a prospecting trip two miners found a skeleton south of Old Casio, says the Inyo Independent. Near the skeleton a saddle and a carpet-bag were carefully laid away in the crevices of the rocks. From papers found were ascertained to be those of Antonio Mosca, a Mexican lieutenant. It is inferred that he perished there about ten years ago in the lava bed from thirst and starvation.

It is announced that the Chinese have purchased several thousand acres of land in one tract in Contra Costa County, on which they intend to establish a colony.—Ex.

All the men obtainable are being put on the work, which is expected to be completed by the 1st of September. To-day ten car-loads of bridge timbers passed here for the front, and every day more or less of the same goes in the same direction.
